OPENING THE CAMPAIGN.

The First Gun Fired by the Old Roman at Fort Huron, Mich.

The Sophistries of Protected Manufacturers and Their Republican Allies Swept to the Winds—Why Laboring Men Should Be Democrats.

The first campaign gun of the Harrison echoing the policies of the tickets from the Republican source, was sounded at Fort Huron, Mich., on August 15, by Hon. John C. Spooner, candidate for the Vice Presidency, Senator Allen G. Thurman. The "Old Roman" said:

I defy any man who has any regard for the truth to say that Grover Cleveland has not made a good President of the United States. [Cheers.] A brave, intelligent, level-headed, noble man, he has led a clean, an upright and a successful Administration. [Loud cheers.] Four years ago he was elected. He also carried that proceeded his election. He repeated predicted all manner of evils if he should succeed. He did succeed, and pray what has become of their predictions? [Laughter and applause.] Where is the ruin that was to follow the election of Grover Cleveland? Where is the disgrace that was to follow his election? On the contrary, this country, in all the elements of true prosperity, more prosperous than it has been for many years that have gone by [Loud cheers.] I have the right, I have the right, I tell you, my fellow-citizens, that a more upright and wise man I do not know to be found within the limits of the United States—[loud cheers]—and he has a cabinet of counselors around him which is not the least among them to the distinguished citizen of your own State, Mr. Dickinson. [Loud cheers.] Cleveland, I say, is only how to govern himself in the limits of the constitution but he knows full well how to choose good constitutional advisers. [Cheers.] Having said this muchabout the President, let me proceed to put the real question to which I alluded in opening, which is commonly called the tariff question.

We have, according to the last advices I have seen, about $10,000,000 in the National Treasury, called surplus revenue—that is, taxes collected from the people to pay the current expenses of the government. Those $10,000,000 are lying partly idle in the vaults of the Treasury of the United States, of no service to any human being, drawing no interest, earning no profit, but taking it from the pockets of the people, where they properly belong, and where, if left in their pockets, thousands and hundreds of thousands and hundreds of thousands of the people of the United States would have been to-day spending and improving their condition and prosperity. [Applause.] The Democratic party says that this is a wrong condition of affairs—that that money ought not to be; the interest of the men on behalf of the Republican party, buried in the ground; that that is a very poor use to make of the money of the people, and therefore the Democratic party say that this surplus revenue, which is produced in this way by this tariff law, ought to be reduced, that the tax should be reduced, that this surplus will not continue to accumulate. Our opponents, on the other hand, say it is better to let the surplus accumulate, it is better to let it be taken from the pockets of our people; it is better to let it be put up in the vaults of the Treasury Department, and there, on the ground

National Democratic Ticket.

FOR PRESIDENT,
GROVER CLEVELAND,
OF NEW YORK.

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT,
ALLAN G. THURMAN,
OF OHIO.

THE next State elections occur as follows: In Arkansas, September 1; Vermont, September 2; Maine, September 10.

IT is a matter of fact that Thurman is the author of the first anti-Chinese legislation in the country. Harrison has quite a different record.

THE Catholic News, published in New York City, has come out squarely for Cleveland in a leading article entitled "Plain Facts for Irish-Americans."

THE Republicans have lost all interest in Harrison since Blaine, "the unclowned king," made his triumphal entry into these shores, and many are asking Garfield's, "Who is our candidate, anyhow?"

HON. DAVID R. FRANCIS, Mayor of St. Louis, who has been nominated for Governor of Missouri by the Democrats, is quite a young man, a native of Lincoln county, Ky., and was reared in Madison county. His election follows the nomination, of course.

THE people of the South seem to be unnecessarily alarmed on the subject of the yellow fever. In all epidemics of the kind fear is the most efficient aid of pestilence. Thus far the disease can not be called epidemic, even in Jacksonville, Fla., where it is most prevalent.

IN concluding his speech at Indianapolis, ex-Senator McDonald said: "Know all the considerations mentioned, it seems to me plain that Indiana in the contest now approaching, will go overwhelmingly Democratic, and that Grover Cleveland will be our President for four years more."

THE Michigan Knights of Labor Assembly held at Jackson, showed that in connection with 43 assemblies only nine assemblies in which over twenty men favor protection, while in twenty-four there are no protectionists. Six declared for free trade, and all are strong for tariff reform.

WHEN you hear the Republican stump orators declaring that the triumph of the Democratic party will result in a reduction of wages and the protection of many industries, just go back four years and recall the fact that they said the same thing in 1884. It is just as true now as the results of Mr. Cleveland's election have proved it was then.

THE Democratic Campaign Committee will issue in a few days the President's Fishery Message, the first edition numbering one million copies. Judge Thurman's Chicago speech will also be issued by the million copies. Accompanying the message will be the comments of the press, including the inland utterances of the Republican organs.

NEARLY four years of Democratic control of the government has satisfied thinking colored men that their race has nothing to fear at the hands of Democracy. They have seen that the Democratic party is the friend to their people and that no disposition exists but to aid them in the struggle of life by encouraging their efforts to secure homes and educate their children.—Ivysburg Gazette.

AT a meeting of cotton planters of West Tennessee and North Mississippi held at Memphis yesterday, it was resolved to decline using pie bagging at present prices, until no one any substance that can be found. Are these cotton planters aware that Uncrowned King Joe Blaine has announced that the tariff tariff is a question matter with which they have no right to interfere?

THE Evansville Bulletin, a heretofore Republican paper, says: "On all the national and all other issues of Republicans, we hear of their determination not to support Harrison, and it is well for Republicans all over the nation to understand, once for all, that Evansville, the first city of manufacturing importance in Harrison's own State, has no earthly use for him and will not give him its Republican support."

JUDGE C. T. ALLEN,

Made the best Democratic speech in Hickman, Saturday night, of the campaign. It was so simple, so plain, so clear, that no man of common sense could fail to understand it. It was a regular old Thurman speech, and just the style to have a good effect. It was the clear, pure, unclouded and unadulterated Democratic position. If just such speeches could be made in every voting precinct in Kentucky, newspapers wouldn't have to beg Democrats to go to the polls in November, but you could not keep them from going, and thus give Cleveland that 50,000 majority.

THE FISHERIES WAR.

The Americans fishermen have, from time to time, for years past, been subjected to Barbarian and outrages at the hands of the Canadian authorities, backed of course by the British Government. The badness relationship of the two great Governments are immense, and President Cleveland is bent to serve these great interests and for the sake of peace, elected to try by means of a treaty to secure these American rights. He did form a treaty with the British plenipotentiaries, and this treaty was sent into the American Senate for their ratification or rejection. The Senate rejected it, on the grounds that the President should retaliate in kind toward the Canadians. The whole truth appears to be that the treaty submitted to the Senate secured to American fishermen most of the rights claimed, but the Senate, composed of a majority of Republicans, for merely political reasons, rejected it. The whole subject of these Republican Senators was to thus incite the Irish vote of New York against Cleveland, thus risking war between the two countries for the demagogical purpose of influencing votes in the Presidential election. But, having rejected the treaty, charging it at the same time that the President was to blame for the rejection, Cleveland sends in a message to Congress recommending that the President be authorized to employ the army and navy to enforce their rights in the premises. Cleveland sends in a message, held and statesmanlike, asking this same Senate to give their President full power to retaliate on those Canadians, and that he will do so to the full measure of the power granted. This message was a thunderbolt in a clear sky, and has utterly confounded the Republican Senate. They are between the devil and the deep blue sea. They have rejected the treaty for peace, and they are afraid to assume the responsibility of war; and they don't know what to do. They know Cleveland means exactly what he says, and that if they now give him the power they have said he should exercise, that he has the nerve to exercise it, and that he will in fact and in truth squeeze the British Lion's tail until blood flows.

THE ABSENT.

The proceedings of Congress the past week show that 144 members of the House of Representatives were absent from their seats, presumably at home looking after their own chances for re-election. This absenteeism is so large that often a quorum is not present to attend to the business before the House, and the House last Monday in consequence revoked all permits for absence, forced to do so to transact the business before it. Many of the most important appropriation bills are yet not acted upon; and the great questions of tax reduction and the Canada Retaliation matter, needs the presence of every member. Naturally enough members feel an interest as to their own re-election, and steal off home to prevent some opponents from gaining advantages, but duty demands of them to stay at their post. Congressman, Hon. W. J. Stone, in a published card to the people seeks to explain to the people why he is unable to be present and address them at different public places, which is because duty compels him to remain at his post until Congress adjourns. We believe that the people fully understand the situation, and that Stone is making more votes by standing square up to duty, as he is, than he would by deserting his seat and scampering over the district making speeches. Our member does himself honor, and his people honor, by thus remaining at the post of duty.

COLONIZING NEGROES.

The Indianapolis Sentinel reports that platoons of negroes from Kentucky are pouring into Indiana. The Bradley boast of carrying Kentucky has been abandoned on the present that they "would carry the State but it would cause bloodshed, rather than risk the shedding of blood they will religiously engage in denying negroes from Kentucky into Indiana and thus get their illegal votes in where there is a chance for the Republicans. The Democrats of Indiana are on the alert, keeping track of these Kentucky negroes, and will make it hot for some of them if they attempt to vote in Indiana. The Indiana Democrats mean to give Kentucky Democrats to help them in preventing this great outrage. Kentucky Democrats can go so by keeping a record of the negroes who leave Kentucky neighborhoods between this time and November, and where they go to, and in every instance informing the Democratic Committee of the Indiana county to which they may go.

THE "Old Roman" has opened the national campaign in Ohio. Here is what he said in one of his speeches: "What is tariff? It is a tax; a tax levied by the general government upon the commodities that the laboring man and all use. It is a tax that takes a bolt of everything from the crown of your head to the soles of your feet; that gets your hat, your vest, your breeches, your boots, your shoes, that taxes every implement which you use in your mechanical and agricultural operations. And to tell me that to take a laboring man and tax him from the top of his head to the soles of his feet, and to tax him on everything he uses in his trade, and to tax him heavily, is a benefit to him, seems to me to be nothing else but absurdity." Loud applause. Here the brakeman stepped be the side of the speaker and thus gave Cleveland that 50,000 majority.

IF

Harrison is elected, the Republicans assert that they intend in some way to take control of the election machinery in the Southern States, exactly how they propose to take such control is not stated, but they are to do this on the charge that the negro is denied a free ballot, &c. The only known way of doing what they threaten is by the use of the military, and again trying the plan of carpet-bag military Governors. Who in the South, white or black, wants that kind of thing? Not one. Yet, if the Republican leaders like Gov. Foraker are in earnest in their talk, they intend to do exactly that thing if restored to power. We don't believe the good sense of the Northern people will ever endorse such a policy, but the people of the South, no matter how they may differ on the tariff or any other question, cannot afford to take any chances, and therefore ignoring all other issues should go to the polls in November and vote for Cleveland and local self-government.

THE Memphis Appeal is inclined to credit the insanity of Lewis Lane, who killed Mae Brown, of this county, to the various "plots that are floating about the country. It may be right. The Appeal says:

"No wonder we have Lewis Lane's and other lunatics, with a fair complement of idiots, running at large. In addition to the confusion incident to labor and capital, which are increasing every day, to the difficulties attendant upon life and living, we have spiritualism, exciting and ever-stimulating revivals, Salvation Armies, perfectionists, faith cure, mind cure, and sanguinary laws curtailing individual rights and interfering with unmolested freedom. Popular clamor, easily excited, is appealed to by well-intentioned persons, who are moved by the dictates of conformity, as if the consciences of men can be dressed up as soldiers and made to appear military. Before the war we were content to let each man's conscience be his own guide, and, with all our boasted civilization, it seems as if we were going back. Public wrong and superstitious ones are working their will and having their way, and prudence and healthy minds dare is taking wings."

BEN BUTLER ON THE TARIFF.

[From an interview in 1882, reported by Boston Esquirer.]

"I am one of the largest woolen manufacturers in the United States. I do not say this boastingly, but to show that I am not selfish in the views I hold. The cloth I wear"—placing his hand on his coat-sleeve—"is of my own manufacture, and I notice several gentlemen around me who wear the same. On these goods there is a tax of 60 per cent. Republican orators and newspapers tell you this tariff is to protect our mill laborers. Twenty per cent. will pay our entire labor expenses. What do you suppose becomes of the other 40 per cent? These same Republican orators and newspapers tell you it goes into the United States treasury. Not a dollar of it does. Every cent goes into my pocket." (Slapping his hand on his pocket vigorously, to give emphasis to his words.) "And every one of you is paying this bounty to the woolen manufacturers. The whole tariff scheme is an imposition and a fraud on the American people."

WILL CARRY ILLINOIS.

[Paducah Standard.]

Messrs. Briscoe and Snyder, U. S. Deputy Marshals for Illinois, were in the city on business yesterday. They have traveled over most of the State and are very confident of Democratic success in Illinois this year. "Palmer will be elected Governor by thirty thousand majority," said Mr. Briscoe, "and I believe that Cleveland will also carry the State. Tariff reform sentiment is growing all over the State. Palmer is making an active canvass and is gaining votes every day. The Republicans recognize the situation and are making desperate efforts to regain their lost ground. They have their whole State ticket going together like a circus and are shaking the bloody shirt vigorously to scare the boys back into line. You hear nothing but politics there now and things will be redhot from now until the election."

GIVE'S MORE OF THINSORT

[New York Sun.]

The greatest of all the sensations that President Cleveland has brought out in his Canadian retaliation message. He is the most sensational President the country has ever had, and this one has been all.

The silver coinage letter to Gen. Weaver foretelling commercial disaster and financial explosion, was a great sensation. So was the civil service letter to Mr. Curtis. So was the appointment as Minister to England of E. J. Phelps, a resident now this and Canadian, anti-British, true blue, North American, Jacksonian message inva them all out. It is great, it is glorious, it is a sensation!

Get up some more such sensations, Brother Cleveland. The American people will stand for a few of them, and gets tired and heavy, they will hold it up.

Give us a few more such sensations, and we will all rejoice and shout Glory t Glory!

THE Democratic Campaign Book is ready for the public. It can be had of the National Democratic Committee, 10 West Twenty-ninth street, New York city. The price is 4t; in clubs of five or more fifty cents.

GOV. ROBB has been renominated by the Democrats of Texas for Governor.

IN INDICATING VOTERS.

[Indianapolis Sentinel.]

Factory hands, who happen to be Democrats, and indeed artisans in most all the large institutions of the State under Republican control, have begun to complain that their bosses are threatening them with dismissal if they persist in their political affiliation and refuse to vote for Harrison. It is said that already employes in various sections have been dropped from the pay roll on this account, and others are in daily dread of losing their positions. A well of this kind has come from New Albany, and it is pretty certain that there will be an investigation down there.

The Democrats have taken cognizance of these complaints, and are now engaged in organizing a society for the prevention of political corruption. Special attention will be paid to those who seek to intimidate their operatives. The law on the subject is simply severe, and is contained in the following section of the "Act against public offenses," passed in 1881:

"Whoever, for the purpose of influencing a voter, seeks by violence or threats to enforce the payment of a debt, or a contract, or threaten to eject from any house he may occupy, or to turn a criminal prosecution or to injure the business or trade of any owner or employer of laborers or an agent or clerk employed, by reason of which a wageearn, or to discharge from the service any laborer in his employment, or refuse to any such employee time to attend at a place of election and vote, shall be fined not more than one thousand dollars nor less than twenty dollars, and imprisoned in the State prison not more than five years nor less than one year, and disfranchised and rendered incapable of holding any office of trust or profit for any determinate period."

It is proposed to make the organization to checkmate this species of fraud wide-reaching, and to trust its direction to men who will rigorously prosecute any and all violators.

COLONIZING NEGROES

[Indianapolis Sentinel.]

The Democratic State Central Committee has been advised that the Republican managers have undertaken the colonization of negroes. Seven train loads of sable Tennesseeans are expected soon to be sentenced about the State, and there will be more recruits from all directions. Here in Indianapolis the influx is already noticeable; they arrived in the wake of the Harrison hippodrome celebrations. No matter to what extent this traffic is conducted, it will not change the final count. The Democrats understand perfectly what the opposition would do in this regard, and accordingly took an early poll of the State in anticipation of such a movement. This early poll was made especially explicit as to the colored voter. Later on another poll will be taken, and by comparison it will be easy to ascertain who are the fraudulent. A list will be prepared for the guidance of the precinct officers, and if any imposition are attempted there will be a speedy judicial reckoning. On the subject, Chairman Jewett said in a letter recently:

"The Democrats, individually and as a party are opposed to colonist labor. We will therefore greatly regret to see the Republicans stooping to any sort of their colonized subsidy because the effect would be to deprive the free and resident laborers. We have matters so arranged that it will be impossible for the Republicans to gain a single fraudulent vote on this tack."

CANADA.

But few people have a correct idea of the country north of us, which the President's message has brought so prominently to our consideration.

The superficial area is greater than that of the United States, and is about equal to the whole of Europe. The arctic Ocean is its northern boundary and the Pacific ocean is its western boundary. It lies between the meridians of 52° and 141°. It contains 3,500,000 square miles.

By the last census the population, it is claimed, is something under 3,000,000.

The population is made up of about 1,250,000 French, 800,000 Irish, 700,000 English, 600,000 Scotch, 200,000 Germans, and the balance Dutch, Welsh, Swiss, Scandinavians, Africans and Indians. There are 1,492,000 Roman Catholics, 494,000 belonging to the Church of England, 577,000 Methodists, 544,000 Presbyterians, 5,146 only professing no religion, 531 Mormons, 400 deists and only 20 atheists.

MURDERER ARRESTED

[From Cairo Telegram.]

Our readers will remember the brutal murder and robbery of an old lady in Ballard county, Ky., last winter, the arrest of Evans Shelby for the crime, and the escape of Tom Shelby, his uncle, charged with being an accomplice. No trace of him was discovered until Friday night, when he was seen in this city, but almost immediately crossed to East Cairo. He was recognized by some of the railroad employes, who telephoned here for the officers to go over and arrest him, but not getting the message, they did not respond. The railroaders then made the arrest themselves and took him to the Illinois where he was at once put in jail. There were several rewards offered for him, aggregating about $1,400. At the time of his escape his friends said that he would come back again; that he had only gone away to escape lying in jail until the court met, and it looks now as if he really had such intentions.

FACTS FOR VOTERS.

A Plain Spoken Man.

His Style—

I'm a plain, unsophisticated man, not well inclined to pulishing, though I speak my mind wherever I am, as' generally out every how.

His Caution—

I wait until the black clouds rift before I venture in a boat; I try to understand the drift of politics before I vote.

His Swearing as—

For years I've toiled and struggled hard to keep a roof above my head, I've never dealt nor played a card, and yet I can't get a red.

His Daily Task—

From rising of the sun I strive with all my might each blessed day to keep my family alive and drive the hungry wolf away.

His Thanks—

I've no complaint to make of toil; I'm thankful I've got the health to dig a living from the soil. I prize that more than worldly wealth.

His Disgust—

Though troubles come to me enough I seldom grumble, never balk; but I'm disgusted with the stuff that certain politicians talk.

His Opinion—

From morn till night they work their jaws, which seem to be in good repair, to back up their assertion cause with cant and lies they fill the air.

His Argument—

They tell me I must surely vote for tariff or else they'll try a chance; I show to them my ragged coat, likewise the patches on my pants.

His Question—

Tell me how protection shields the honest and improves his lands; I ask them why it shields the fields of wheat to meet our humble demands.

His Point—

Tell me there is no distress in farm homes throughout this nation; I point them to my poor wife's dress, and ask them for an explanation.

His Candidate—

The knocks dealt talk all silly; none they know the old free trade alarm. I favor Bishop's ticket through, and then I show the ballots on my farm.

Hickman and Tiptonville Levee Co.

Promises of Certain Early Completion.

Old Company Transfers to the Ga. Tenn. & Mo. Railroad Company.

Messrs Haley and Tilghman, representatives of the Georgia, Tennessee and Missouri Railroad, were in Hickman Tuesday and Wednesday in the interest of their proposed railroad, now specially looking to negotiations with the old Hickman and Tiptonville levee company for a transfer of its charter, franchises, &c. A meeting of citizens, with some of the Directors of the old company present, was held Tuesday night, for the purpose of hearing the propositions of Messrs Haley and Tilghman and eliciting expressions from the citizens as to the acceptance of same. Mr. Tilghman, on the part of the Ga. Tenn. & Mo. made the proposition that if the Hickman & Tiptonville Levee company would transfer to them the charter, franchises, &c., that they would contract to commence the proposed work within twelve months from the date of the transfer, and complete levee, with a railroad ironed and equipped, within four years. He stated that his company had certain assurances that upon a fixed land subscription they would be supplied with all the necessary money to build the levee and railroad, and that they pledged themselves to active, immediate work to secure that result, and that failing to commence work within the first twelve months, or failing to complete it within four years, the transfer to be null and void. He stated, without contracting to do so, that every interest pointed to the completion of the levee with in the first year after commencement. He stated further, that from a canvass of the overflowed territory both in Tennessee and Kentucky that their agents had received most flattering encouragements from land owners as to securing the requisite land subscription. His proposed railroad was to be from Savannah, Ga., to Hickman, Ky., with a trans Mo sissippi connection, not yet arranged for. At present their efforts were directed towards building the road from Humboldt via Pleasburg, and through Lake county to Hickman.

On the part of the citizens, R. T. Tyler, A. B. Kingman, C. L. Randle, John W. Terry, Wright and others, made favorable expressions recommending the acceptance of the Tilghman proposition, and urging the commissioners of the old Hickman and Tiptonville Levee company to transfer to the G., Tenn. & Mo. Railroad, company the charter, franchises, &c., on the conditions proposed. The commissioners present signified their willingness to do so, the citizens pledging their co-operation, enforcement and aid. The proposition being agreed to and accepted, the regular and legal transfer will be made and such other necessary legal steps can be taken.

So, therefore, our people have, at last, a real, bona fide proposition before them, for executing this long-talked-of and greatest of all local enterprises that has ever been presented to the community. The levee, when built and kept up, will reclaim from overflow at least 200,000 acres of as fine lands as can be found in the United States, and people it with a teeming population of farmers, and the trade of two-thirds of this territory is naturally tributary to Hickman. Those in charge of the enterprise are sanguine that it will be built, and be built within the next twelve months.

—The damage to growing crops in West Kentucky and Tennessee, from the continuous rains, and the winds, is almost inestimable. In this county, one-third of the corn crop is blown to the ground, and in the upper portion of the county, we hear, that the tobacco crop is seriously damaged.

—If you want the Hickman and Tiptonville Levee and Railroad, lend the enterprise an encouraging word. The company is not now asking a dollar in money, from Hickman or any of its citizens, only a land subscription from owners whose lands are to be benefitted, and if they fail to commence the levee within one year, or to complete it in four years, the lands never pass from the present ownership. All the expenses of the effort falls on the new company.

—When you hear anybody say that the T. & T. will never be put through to the river, and that the trains will stop running in a short time, you may know that he is one of those kind that said Troy couldn't buy a load of ties. It is not what farmers say, it is C. P. Huntington's pocket change.—[Troy Press.

—Democrats as well as Republicans make mistakes when they throw all their energy and all their big speakers to grand political rallies in some central place in each congressional District. Such rallies are all very well, and read splendidly in the papers, but after all only the hot partisans and those well to do are able to attend these central rallies, and being confirmed in party faith no new converts are made. The same money that is expended in one of these Central Kentucky barbecues would put a copy of the Old Roman's Port Huron speech in the hands of every voter in the State, and that would add 5000 votes to Cleveland's majority in Kentucky.

—Some of the Canadian papers talk like they mean fight, and in time of that the United States will have her hands full when the dance opens. There are enough English butting Irishmen in the United States to clean out Canada in 48 hours, if Mr. Cleveland should turn them loose. But, then, this country don't want war. Uncle Sam would be victorious, but it would cost thousands of precious lives and millions of dollars. In this enlightened age such questions ought to be settled without war, and we think surely it will be. However, the two countries are playing like little boys wrestling and may wind up in a real fight.

—The Mississippi River Commission bare made no publication as to when work will be begun at any point on the river under the recent appropriation bill. Memorials are before the Commission setting forth reasons why work should be commenced on the Hickman bar this season, and Hon. W. J. Stone will make an oral argument before the commission showing the urgency of work at this point.

—In the first speech delivered by Mr. Blaine after his return to America, he spoke to this effect:

"And I say here, as I hope to say with much more elaboration and force hereafter—I say here that the wages of American labor cannot be reduced except with the consent and the voice of the American laborer himself."

In view of the strikes and lockouts of recent years, it will surprise the American workingmen to be told that their wages cannot be reduced without their consent.

THE RIOT IN LAKE COUNTY.

[Upon the Headlight.]

The whole story was so unreasonable and unnatural to the peace and good order that usually reigns in that neighborhood, that it was regarded as a canard gotten up by some unbelievers in party politics, as an election bonx. But, to investigation the story was found to be too true, and only exaggerated as to the number of persons flogged. The colored church building was indeed a mass of smoking ruins. One man had been whipped and many given notice to go, and not stand, either, upon their order of going.

AFTER A NEW ROAD

UNION CITY, TENN., Aug. 25.—A meeting of the business men of this city was held to-day for the purpose of organizing the Union City, Louisville & Memphis Railroad. The projected road will intersect the Mobile & Ohio at Dyer, and the Chesapeake & Ohio at Harris' Station. The application for a charter will be made at once. The applicants for the charter are among our most representative business men. W. H. Gardner was elected chairman, and W. H. Griffin secretary of the meeting.

OUR COLORED FOLKS.

A reception was given at the residence of Mrs. Jane Allen on the 23rd inst., to Mr. and Mrs. Anderson, who have recently returned from Evansville, Ind., where they were married on the 21st inst. Mr. Anderson is one of the best tonsorial artists in this end of the State, and his many friends, on both sides, extend best wishes for his future success and happiness.

The bride appeared in white surah and moire, flowers and diamonds. The groom was attired in full suit of black.

The following ladies and gentlemen extended congratulations:

Misses Mattie Wilkins, Lucy Walker, Laura Thompson, Metta Gardner, Anna Harris, Anna Thompson, Vera Carr, Betty Shelby, Belle Bowden, Adelaide Upshaw, John Ellen Brown, and Jennie Gardner; Messrs. Finis Thompson, Ralph Smith, James Upshaw, James Shelby, George Yates, Willie Gardner, and W. H. Robinson.

About the time the guests were being seated to a sumptuously prepared table, Othello appeared on the scene just in time to jot down those lines and refresh himself.

Protracted meeting at the Baptist church conducted by Rev. Evans, of Covington, Tenn.

A sociable was given at the residence of Mr. Thos. Nichols, on the 29th inst., to the Misses Walker, who are visiting them.

The colored school will open on Monday, Sept. 3rd, Prof. W. H. Ballard, principal.

OTHELLO.

"BENEFITS" UNDER PROTECTION.

Educate the People on Tariff Topics.

Mr. Blaine says the present generation must be taught the benefits of high protection.

An excellent idea. The New York Herald seconds the motion.

If a young man buys a suit of clothes for $23 the amount of protection he pays for is $9. The clothes without protection would cost $14.

If he buys a $1 hat he gets 40 cents worth of hat and 60 cents worth of protection.

If a young couple just beginning housekeeping buy a yard of Brussels carpet for $1 they receive 45 cents in carpet and 55 cents in protection—or say for a whole room $12 worth of carpet and $18 worth of protection. With free wool $18 would be saved.

If the young woman pays $9 for a shawl she gets $8 worth of shawl only; the other $3 she presents to the manufacturer to "protect" him.

If she buys a dress for $18 she gets $12 worth of dress and $6 worth of protection.

If, however, she wants a pair of shoes, which formerly cost $4.50 to $5.50, she has only to pay $2.50 or $3.50, according to quality, because some of the "protection" has been taken off hides, from which the leather in the shoes is made.

If she pays 50 cents for an iron pot or pan she gets 30 cents in pounds and 20 cents worth of protection.

If she buys a clock for $3 she receives $2 worth of clock and $1 worth of protection.

If she buys a dozen steel knives and forks for $3.50 she gets about $2 in knives and $1.50 in protection.

If she buys a dozen glass tumblers for $1 she receives in glass 55 cents and 45 in tariff.

If a young farmer buys $100 worth of implements to start out in life he gets $55 in machine and $45 in tariff wind pudding. With the Mills bill passed he could get a horse and harness as well as his implements, for his $100.

POCKET-BOOK LOST.

SMALL THINGS.

One Little Book May Christianize an Entire Nation.

One Lone Man May Evangelize a Whole Continent—Think of Nothing as Insignificant. for Wonders May Result—Talmage's Sermon.

Rev. T. De Witt Talmage, D. D., preached last Sunday on the ramp-grounds at Gettysburg, Pa. The subject of his sermon was "Great Results May Depend on Small Kernels." Dr. Talmage took for his text: "Though a winding sheet in a basket, was I let down by the wall." II. Cor., Ii, 33. He said:

Damascus is a city of white and glistening architecture, sometimes called "the Eye of the East," sometimes called "a pearl surrounded by emeralds," at one time distinguished for swords of the best material, called Damascus blades, and upholstery of the richest fabric called damask. A horseman by the name of Paul, riding toward the city, had been struck from the saddle. The horse had dropped under a flash from the sky, while at the same time there was so bright it blinded the rider for many days, and, I think, so permanently injured his eyesight that this defect of vision became the thorn in the flesh he afterward spoke of. He started for Damascus to butcher Christians, but after that hard fall from his horse he was a changed man and preached Christ in Damascus till the city was shaken to its foundation.

The mayor gives authority for his arrest and the particular street, "Kirk" by name, him." The city is surrounded by a high wall, and the gates are watched by the police and the African peasantry. Many of the houses are built on the wall, and their habitants get acquainted over and hovered above the gardens outside. It was customary to lower baskets out of these balconies and pull up the fruits and flowers from the gardens. To this day visitors at the monastery of Mount Sinai are lifted and let down in baskets. Deserters prowled around from house to house looking for Paul, but his friend hid him, now in one place, now in another. He is no coward, as fifty incidents in his life demonstrate. But he feels his work is not done yet and so he evades assassination. "Is that preacher here?" the fonming mob shouts at every door. "Is that fanatic here?" the police shout at another house door. Sometimes on the street, incognito, he passes through a crowd of clinched fists and sometimes he secretes him self on the housetop. At last the infuriated populace get on sure track of him. They have positive evidence that he is in the house at one of the balconies. The name of whose home reaches over the wall. "Here he is! Here he is!" The vociferation and blasphemy and the rush of the pursuers are at the front door. They break in. "Fetch out that Gospeller, and let us hang his head on the gate post. Where is he?" The emergency was terrible. Providentially there was a good stout basket in the house. Paul's friends fasten a rope to the basket. Paul steps into it. The basket is lifted to the edge of the balcony on the wall, and then while Paul holds on to the rope with both hands his friends lower away, carefully and cautiously, slowly but surely, further down and further down, until the basket strikes the earth and the apostle walks out, and afoot and alone starts on that famous missionary tour, the story of which has astonished earth and Heaven. Appropriate entry in Paul's diary of travels: "Through a window, in a basket, was I let down by the wall."

Observe, first, on what a slender tenure great results hang. The rope-maker who twisted that cord fastened to that lowering basket never knew how much would depend on the strength of it. How much had been broken and the apostle's life had been dashed out? What would there have been for the Christian Church? All that magnificent missionary work in Pamphilia, Cappadocia, Bithynia, Macedonia and Greece have been written. The story of resurrection would never have been accomplished. All his writings that make up so much valuable and enchanting a part of the New Testament would never have been so gloriously told as he told it. That escape was a grand and triumphant entrance at Philippi, in the Mediterranean metropolis under the Acropolis and at his beheading would not have kindled the courage of ten thousand confessors. But that rope and that hold-up that basket, how much depended on it? Reason and again great results have hung on what seemed slender circumstances.

Hid ever skin of many thousand sons cross upon the sun have such importance to cancer as had once a host of leaves, from taffrail to stern only three or four feet, the remarkable enterprise of a party of blasphemers, and floating on the Nile with the infant Jew given of the Jews to their gods. What if some ore side should crunch it? What if some of the rattle wailing in for a drink should sink it? Vessels of war sometimes carry forty guns looking through the port-holes ready to open battle. But that tiny craft on the Nile is going to have been armed with all the guns of thunder that thundered on Sinai at the lawgiving. Oh how fragile craft and how much of historical importance!

The parsonage, at Epworth, England, is on fire in the night, and the father rushed through the hallway for the rescue of his children. Seven children are safe and out on the ground, but one remains in the consuming building. That one wakes, and, finding his bed on fire, leaps to the floor, crumbling, comes to the window, and two peasants made a pair ladder of their bodies, the second standing on the shoulder of the other, and down the human ladder the five descended John Wesley. Who would know how much depended on that ladder of peasants, ask the millions of Methodists in the midst of the earth and their mission stations all around the world. Ask their hundreds of thousands already assembled in the Heaven that would have perished but for the living stairs of prayerful peasantry?

An English ship stopped at Pitcairn Island, and right in the midst of surrounding cannibalism and idolatry found progress discovered a Christian colony of churches and schools and beautiful homes, and of the highest style of civilization and religion. For fifty years no missionary had set foot on that island. Who planted there. Why this oasis of light amid a desert of heathendom? Sixty years before a ship had been disabled and the rebel sailors, unable to save anything else, went to his trunk and took out a Bible which his mother had placed there, and when ashore the Bible held in his teeth. The rock on which we are all sides, and the single Christian population were evangelized, and a church was started and an enlightened commonwealth established and the world's history has no more brilliant page than that which tells of the transformation of a nation by one book. It did not seem of much importance whether the sailor continued to hold the book in his teeth or let it fall in the breakers, but upon what small circumstance depended what mighty results!

Practical inference: There are no insignificances in our lives. The minute thing is put into a magnitude. Infinity is made up of infinitesimals. Great things an aggregation of small things. Bethlehem manger pulling on a star in the sky. One look in a drenched sailor's mouth the evangelization of a multitude. One boat of peppercorn on the Nile freighted with events for all the ages. The fate of Christendom in a basket set down from a wind-row on the wall. What you do, do well. If you make a rope, make it strong and true, for you know not how much may depend upon your workmanship. If you fashion a k at let it be water-proof, for you know not who may sail in it. If you put a Bible in the trunk of your boy as he goes from home, let it be honey in your prayers for it may have a mission as far reaching as the book which the sailor carried in his teeth to the Pitcairn Island.

The plainest man's life is an island between two eternities—eternity past rippling against his shoulders, eternity to come touching his brow. The casual the accidental, that which merely happens are parts of a great plan, and the rope that lets the fugitive Apostle from the pinnacles wall is the cable that holdeth in mooring the ship of the Church in the seventeenth century.

Again, notice unrecognized and unrecorded services. Who spun the rope? Who started to the basket? Who steadied the illustrious preacher as he stepped into it? Who relaxed not a moment great nerve of endurance as at every look from his face until the basket touched the ground and discharged its magnificent cargo? Not one of their names do we know, but there was no work done that day in Damascus or in all the earth, connected with the importance of their own. Not if they had, in the agitation, tied a knot that could slip! What if the snap of a mesh at the door had let down the wrong "Paul must take care of himself, and we will take care of ours!" No, no, they held the rope, and in doing so did more for the Christian Church than any thousand men of their generation accomplish. Paul and I has made eternal record of their undertaking. And they knew. How could they must have felt when they received letters to the Romans, to the Corinthians, to the Galatians, to the Ephesians, to the Philippians, to the Colossians, to the Thessalonians, to Timothy, to Titus, to Philemon, to the Hebrews? when they learned how he walked out of prison with the earthquake unlocking the door for him, how he walked out of the Roman coliseum with when the sailors was nearly wrecked, and how he preached a sermon that nearly shook Felix off his judgment seat. I hear the men and women who helped back down through the ages, all over the wall talking in praise of the matter and saying: "How glad I am that I put that strong cord in the hands of those others may get the glory of Paul's work, but we also had our share of the satisfaction of knowing that we held the rope."

There are said to be about sixty-nine thousand ministers of the gospel in this country. About fifty thousand, I warrant, came from early homes which had to struggle for the necessaries of life. The sons of rich bankers and merchants generally become bankers and merchants. The sons of rich lawyers and statesmen are the sons of those who had a terrific struggle to get their every day bread. The collegiate and theological education of that son took every penny from the parental purse for eight years. The children were more scantily appareled. The son at college every little while got a letter from home, and it was the knowing that mother had knit, sitting up late at night, her night out as good as it once was.

And there also were sons-ministers from the farm hand for the support and expense of a hungry student. The father sawing the heavy crash through the wheat, the sweat rolling from his ribs as he trod the step of the way, and then sitting down under the cherry tree at noon thinking to himself how grand it would be if he could pay if I can once see that boy through college, and if I can know that he will be preaching the Gospel, I will die glad." The younger children want to know why their car's have to go and had a cotton gin, then do, and the mother says: "Be patient, my children, until your brother graduates, and he will then send them to the factories but we must see that they go through."

The years go by, and the son has been ordained, and he goes out to preach the Gospel, and a great revival comes, and souls by the scores and hundreds accept the Gospel from the lips of the young preacher, and father and mother, quiet old now, are visiting the son at the village parsonage, and at the close of the Sabbath of mighty blessing father and mother retire to their room, the son lighting the way and asking them if he could do any thing to make them more comfortable, and they say: "Nothing, only in the night just to knock on the wall. And then all alone father and mother talk over the gracious work of the day and say to each other:

"Well, it was worth all we went through to educate that boy. It was a hard pull, but we had our full share of the joy. The world may not know it, but, mother, we held the rope right well." And the voice, tremulous with joyful emotion, responds: "Yes, father, we held the rope well my own mother is dead. Now, Lord, since thou thy servant depart in peace, for mine eyes have seen thy salvation." "Then" to-night, father, "I would be glad to be let down in the basket, how much depended on it? Season and again great results have hung on what seemed slender circumstances.

RETALIATION.

President Cleveland Asks Congress for Power

To Suspend by Proclamation Commercial Intercourse With Canada, as a Measure of Retaliation for Past Outrages.

THE MESSAGE.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—The President sent the following message to Congress yesterday afternoon:

To the Senate and House of Representatives: By the Senate of the treaty lately negotiated by the plenipotentiaries of the United States and Great Britain, between the United States and Great Britain, provision is made for the privileges of fishing fishermen in the ports and waters of British North America, for a joint survey of the coasts and for the settlement of questions in connection to which the pending question is thus submitted.

The treaty upon this subject concluded in 1818, through the negotiation of Albert Gallatin, on our terms, has been a fruitful source of irritation and incivility. Our citizens engaged in fishing enterprises in waters adjacent to Canada have been subjected to many annoying and vexatious searches and interference; they have been driven from fishing grounds which by the terms of the treaty in question they had supposed were open to them, and their vessels have been seized by the Canadian authorities and condemned for violations of treaty rights as they were supposed.

This conduct has been justified by Great Britain and Canada by the claim that the treaty of 1818 prohibited to our fishermen the right which it was necessary to the proper protection of the fishing interest. We deny that such a treaty prohibition justify these acts, and we further maintain that, if it arose from any treaty stipulation disputed interpretation, the relative positions of the United States and Great Britain as to fisheries, the growth of our joint commerce, the development of the fisheries, the growth of our joint commerce, the development of the fisheries, the growth of our joint commerce, the development of the
